ABOUT

How to Become a Vermont Corrections Professional

Are you looking for a career in Corrections, do you want a job that is more than just nine to five? Corrections might be the Path that you are looking for to provide long-term employment and job satisfaction. In Vermont, there is an opportunity to do more than just work in a Jail or Prison; you would work in a system that believes in the basics of human change.

Promotion Opportunities

Vermont's Department of Corrections is one of the largest departments in state government. Career opportunities with the Department are excellent with great potential for advancement. Most corrections professionals start as entry-level Correctional Officers I. Many go on to positions as Correctional Facility Supervisors, Correctional Service Specialists, Community Correctional Officers, Probation and Parole Officers, Superintendents, and Directors in our Central Office.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES:

Correctional Officer I (Permanent and Temporary) in facilities around the state:

South Burlington, Swanton, Springfield, St. Johnsbury, Newport and Rutland
